DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 5-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Iida et al. US 6,638,485.

Regarding claim 5, Iida discloses a method for removing exhaust gas from mercury comprising adding a mercury chlorinating agent and ammonia to exhaust gas to convert the mercury to mercury chloride, passing to a NOx/ammonia reactor, and passing through a scrubbing tower.

Iida fails to disclose oxidizing mercury on the downstream side of the ammonia decomposition.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to oxidize mercury on the downstream side of ammonia composition because the reaction of mercury chloride and SOx is disclosed as being at the end of the process, which would motivate an ordinarily skilled artisan to oxidize mercury either at the beginning or on the downstream side of the ammonia decomposition, so long as it occurs before the scrubbing tower, as disclosed in Iida.

Regarding claims 6-9, Iida discloses the specific process conditions including ammonia levels and it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use optimal temperature zones of 120-450 degrees achieved through routine experimentation.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 2/25/08 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

It is argued that first, Iida does not teach... the claimed invention. This is not persuasive because Iida discloses ammonia decomposition in the disclosed reaction (see column 1, lines 45-48).

It is argued that Iida provides no disclosure... denitrification and oxidation. This is not persuasive for the reasons above and also because it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to oxidize mercury on the downstream side of ammonia composition because the reaction of mercury chloride and SO_x is disclosed as being at the end of the process, which would motivate an ordinarily skilled artisan to oxidize mercury either at the beginning or on the downstream side of the ammonia decomposition, so long as it occurs before the scrubbing tower, as disclosed in Iida.

It is argued moreover, the claimed invention... disclosed in Iida. This is not persuasive because even if true, Iida nowhere teaches away from the claimed invention. The fact that applicant has recognized another advantage which would flow naturally from following the suggestion of the prior art cannot be the basis for patentability when the differences would otherwise be obvious. See Ex parte Obiaya, 227 USPQ 58, 60 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1985).

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Art Unit: 1793
